ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

2003 - 2004 ANNUAL REPORT

MESSAGE FROM THE COMMISSIONER

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police has a proud history of providing exemplary policing services throughout Canada for more than 130 years. As we embark on the twenty-first century, our commitment to ensuring "Safe Homes and Safe Communities" for all Canadians is as strong as ever.

The challenges, however, the RCMP face today are considerable and considerably different than what the North West Mounted Police faced as they journeyed West in 1873. The pace and scope of our working environment has transformed around us. We are challenged by criminals using sophisticated technological advancements to commit serious crimes, terrorists who transcend borders, organized crime, and globalization.

In this vein, "L" Division is not only fulfilling its mandate, it is building on a strong legacy by supporting the new strategic direction for the Force - one which encourages active integration with the broader police and law enforcement community for a better future. This means a new management approach by concentrating on intelligence-led policing, building bridges with the communities we serve, being accountable for our decisions and actions, and reflecting the core values of Canadian society.

It means living the vision of "integrated policing" by reaching out and working with our partners at home and around the world to deal with the issues that threaten the safety and security of our citizens. It means partnering and collaborating with other law enforcement organizations to more effectively address the root causes of criminality.

Fighting crime today means law enforcement organizations must work together domestically and globally. "L" Division is doing that and more. Close to 170 RCMP employees throughout the province of Prince Edward Island are committed to enforcing federal statutes, curbing organized crime, contributing to national security, ensuring the safety of state officials, investigating matters of national and international scope and providing vital operational support services to other police and law enforcement agencies.

I congratulate "L" Division on making important strides during the past year and I invite you to read more about the activities in this report. I also thank each and every member of our workforce for their dedication to the safety and security of citizens in the province of Prince Edward Island, across Canada, and around the world.

Commissioner Giuliano Zaccardelli

MESSAGE FROM DEPUTY COMMISSIONER ATLANTIC REGION

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is proud to be your police service in Prince Edward Island. We have been policing PEI under a Provincial Policing Service Agreement for more than 70 years, a clear sign of a strong and healthy partnership which continues to be valued by the RCMP and by the Province of PEI. The Agreement ensures we are accountable to the government and citizens of this province to provide quality services that meet the needs, objectives and expectations of Islanders.

The RCMP is well positioned to offer a high level of public service, accenting intelligence, values, bridge-building and accountability. Growing demands and our rapidly changing world are straining resources and require creative solutions. Integration, whether in the operational or management spheres, or with our many partners, is critical to our collective success in ensuring safe home and communities. Being an integrated police service means three things:

First, we are integrated internally in our management structure. In 1997, we adopted a regional model so that internal services such as Human Resources, Corporate Management and Informatics would be delivered as an Atlantic Region to ensure the most efficient and effective use of resources. The result is that Divisions can focus more attention and resources on delivering front-line policing to citizens.

Second, we are integrated in providing policing services at the municipal, provincial, national and international levels, a model that is unique in the world. Among the advantages is the breadth of experience and expertise our members develop and bring to their jobs. A member in a small community detachment is part of the fight against organized crime and terrorism even as he or she is working within the community to address local concerns.

Finally, we are pursuing greater integration with other police services at home and abroad, federal and provincial organizations, and community and private sector partners. This includes police services in Charlottetown, Summerside, Borden and Kensington. The advantages include developing and sharing better intelligence, taking advantage of unique skills and expertise, and providing a coordinated response to enforcement issues. The result is better service to citizens.

The RCMP traces its history back over 130 years and is justifiably proud of the role it has played in building Canada. We are also confident in our future as Canada's national police service. Our values in the RCMP reflect those of Canadian society and are based on integrity, honesty, professionalism, compassion, respect and accountability. To achieve our goals we strive to build bridges with colleagues, partners, other government agencies and the communities we serve. Finally, we stress the importance of accountability, relying on a clear under-standing by everyone of what is expected, to ensure we earn the trust of our communities.

We are therefore honoured to have your trust and confidence in providing policing services to Prince Edward Island.

Deputy Commissioner J.G. Harper Boucher

MESSAGE FROM COMMANDING OFFICER

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police is proud to be the provincial police service in Prince Edward Island since 1932. In that time we have built strong bridges with our policing partners including provincial and municipal governments and citizens across this great province. We are committed to providing quality and professional service, demonstrating value for the service we provide and establishing and maintaining partnerships based on trust and shared goals. We do this to help ensure our communities remain safe and secure.

The past year has presented a number of successes and challenges for the RCMP in PEI. I am particularly proud of our integration efforts with the municipal police agencies in this province. One area where this has been demonstrated quite effectively is highway safety. During 2003/04, the RCMP, our municipal police partners and the Highway Safety Division of the Department of Transportation and Public Works coordinated several traffic check stops across PEI. Highway safety is one of our provincial policing priorities and we continue to strive to find innovative ways to address this serious issue. Another example of our integrated efforts occurred during the implementation of the AMBER Alert program in September 2003. The AMBER Alert program provides a rapid response to serious child abduction cases. The program is run in partnership with police agencies and media outlets across the province.

Youth remains a priority both at a local and national level within the RCMP. I am pleased to report that "L" Division was home to a exciting school resource officer pilot project based in Kings County. Constable Earl Woods worked full-time as the resource officer for the Souris family of schools. We are awaiting a formal evaluation of the project and have received very favourable feedback from the school and students involved with the project.

In terms of challenges, we were called to the Souris wharf in late October 2003 to enforce a court injunction with regard to the inshore herring fishery. Additional support from the RCMP in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia was deployed to assist "L" Division. Inshore fisherman protesting the presence of herring seiners resulted in a serious injury to one of our members and several arrests. We continue to monitor this situation as the season opening approaches for 2004.

We take great pride in the service we provide to Prince Edward Island, and are honoured by the trust you and the citizens of this province have placed in us. This report provides a snapshot of our activities during the 2003/04 fiscal year.

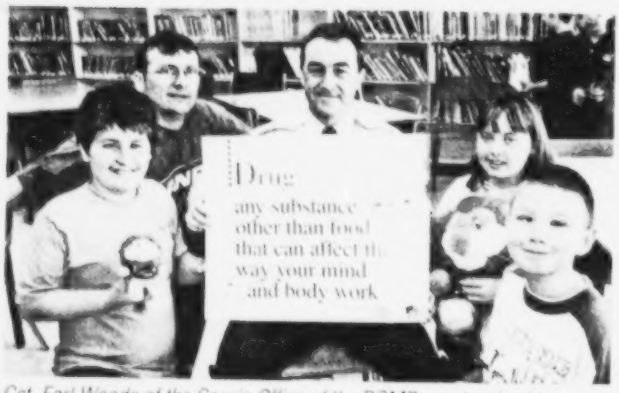
YOUTH



Cst. Earl Woods of the Souris Office of the RCMP was involved in a school year-pilot as the School Resource Officer for the Souris Family of Schools. In addition to his visits as a DARE leader, Cst. Woods spent time with students in and out of the classroom, including rides on the school bus and graduation activities.

FAST FACTS CANADA

- Youth experience more violent and personal crime (sexual assault, assault, robbery and personal theft) than any other age category.
- Youth are most likely to be victimized by someone in their age group or slightly older.
- Canadian youth are among the most connected (Internet) in the world. Almost every young person in Canada has access to the Internet either at school or at home.
- 20 per cent of all violent crimes against youth occur on school grounds.
- Teenagers and young adults are at the greatest risk of engaging in criminal activity. They make up 21 per cent of those charged with Criminal Code offences.

The RCMP and the Province of Prince Edward Island recognize youth and issues involving them as a priority. By looking at the source of problems involving youth and working collectively with our partners to address the social causes of these problems, "L" Division hopes to place increased emphasis on non-traditional policing roles and consider the root causes, not just the symptoms, in order to prevent crime by making youth a priority. This year each District hosted community meetings to identify youth issues, develop an action plan and integrated approach to address issues. Youth in various communities were integral to both the planning and implementation of plan.

Success: Souris Detachment piloted a national youth strategy project which saw an officer designated as a full-time resource to the Souris Regional High School family of schools. The member assigned, Cst. Earl Woods, interacted and worked with the youth in such areas a Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) program, anti-bullying project and school bus safety. This program was recognized by youth, parents, teachers and MLAs from the area as a very worthwhile endeavour.

Success: One issue identified in each District as an area of concern was fatal and serious-injury collisions associated with the celebration of high school graduations. RCMP detachments across PEI participated in high school graduation committees. Through educational efforts, increased visibility, enforcement and participation in graduation events, there were no fatal or serious-injury collisions to mar this important milestone in the life of every student.

Success: Recognizing the increased misuse of the Internet for the exploitation of children, members of our Commercial Crime Unit and detachment personnel conducted regular Internet safety talks to school students, their parents and home and school associations. These presentations were designed to increase awareness of the potential dangers associated with misuse of the Internet. Our Division is also participating in the establishment of an Atlantic Region Integrated Child Exploitation (ICE) Unit which targets Internet child pornography globally.

SENIORS

The PEI Seniors Safety Program received $5000 from the Mounted Police Foundation in October 2003 to assist with its ongoing mandate of providing information on an individual and confidential basis to seniors in the province to help ensure that they continue to feel safe and secure in their homes.

FAST FACTS CANADA

Canada's aging population is expanding and evolving:

- As baby boomers approach retirement and life expectancy continues to increase, Canada is in the midst of a demographic revolution.
- By 2001 Canadian seniors will account for one in seven citizens due to improved health care contributing to greater longevity.
- By 2025 Canadian seniors will greatly outnumber the country's youth.

Canada's seniors are increasingly healthy, robust and independent:

- Only five per cent of Canadians over 65 are in long-term care facilities.
- 35 per cent of women and 16 per cent of men over the age of 65 live alone.

As our population ages and persons return or come to Prince Edward Island to retire, our population of seniors increases. This segment of the population has historically been more vulnerable to crimes of deception and fraud. As our seniors population grows, and as an increasing number of seniors live alone, the demand and nature of policing services are likely to change. "L" Division is cognizant that seniors must not only be safe, but also feel safe in their homes and their communities.

Success: Senior Safety programs were established in Queens and Prince Districts. Each program had a full-time coordinator who worked with district staff to deliver educational material on frauds, personal safety and building security to seniors' homes, groups and individuals.

Success: Our Division Major Crime Unit was successful in identifying and prosecuting an individual who had an ongoing fraud scheme in which he defrauded an elderly resident of a significant amount of money. Through early identification and disruption of the scheme the senior did not lose all her savings.

FAMILY VIOLENCE PREVENTION

DID YOU KNOW?

RCMP members sit on the following committees in PEI:

- Premier's Action Committee on Family Violence Prevention
- Provincial Child Sexual Assault Advisory Committee
- Provincial Victim Services Advisory Committee
- Eastern Kings Peaceful Family Committee
- Kings Family Violence Prevention Committee
- West Prince Family Violence Committee
- East Prince Family Violence Committee
- Attorney General's Ad Hoc Working Group on Spousal Abuse Reports

"L" Division and the Attorney General of PEI recognize the detrimental and long-term effects of family violence on our communities. The RCMP continues to take a lead role through collaborative efforts with our partners in education and service agencies. Child and Family Services and the RCMP continue to apply the Provincial Child Sexual Assault Protocol which recognizes the rights and special needs of children who are victims of this horrific crime. The RCMP also continues to work closely with the Provincial Family Violence Consultant on the review of family violence incidents to identify trends and gaps in service with a view to reducing offences and the effects on families.

Success: A recent review of family violence incidents indicated that children exposed to family violence (while not the direct victim of the crime) were negatively impacted by it. The review also stated that there was no mechanism in place to ensure that the children received appropriate counselling to deal with short- and long-term effects of the violence. The RCMP initiated a mandatory reporting to Child and Family Services of such circumstances. Training was also developed and eight sessions were held during this fiscal year to train police personnel in the changes to the Victims of Family Violence Act. A 2003/04 review of family violence incidents shows a high degree of compliance with this reporting with positive feedback from Child and Family Services on the mental well being of the children involved.

Success: Over the past number of years members of Queens District have been involved with partner agencies in delivering a stage presentation at Bluefield High School and other schools that deals with family violence and the roles on the various support agencies that are available to assist. This presentation proved so effective that funding was sought and obtained through the Community Mobilization Program to facilitate the recording of the presentation to a DVD that would provide for distribution to all Island schools and interested community groups.

COMMUNITY POLICING

Prince Edward Island is home to two of the country's six pilot sites for local youth to contribute to a national web site designed by youth, for youth. Deal.org launched its PEI presence in Stratford in November 2003. The web site operates in partnership with the RCMP and is based in Ottawa. From left: Stephanie Gauthier, Deal.org Project Coordinator; Daniel Larter, Stratford Youth Can Do; Eileen Higginbotham, teacher advisor for Deal.org at St. Peters Consolidated School; Callen Cudmore, Stratford Youth Can Do; and Constable Cheryl Duffy, Stratford RCMP. Youth participants received training in managing a team of volunteers, recruiting volunteer support, dealing effectively with problem situations, building community partnerships, marketing, writing and editing, and using a content management system to build their web site.

DID YOU KNOW?

Community Policing activities by RCMP on PEI include:

- Auxiliary Policing Program
- Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE)
- Selective Traffic Enforcement Programs (STEP)
- Safe Graduation Activities
- Community Consultative Groups (CCGs)
- Commanding Officer's Youth Advisory Group
- Commanding Officer's Aboriginal Advisory Group
- Generation XX (Montague)
- Ground Search and Rescue
- School Liaison Program
- SADD Group Steering Committee
- Member of Provincial Coordinating Committee on Impaired Driving
- Stratford Youth Can Do Program
- RCMP Venturers

"L" Division recognizes that the police cannot work in a vacuum in any community. They are a trusted and valued partner with a responsibility to recognize problems and mobilize resources to address them. We must make efforts to address the root cause of issues in order to prevent crime and make our homes and communities safer. The RCMP relies heavily on community leaders and citizens to identify policing priorities and to provide assistance in developing and implementing identified solutions.

Success: In an effort to ensure that RCMP efforts were directed at community-identified issues, Prince District members met with the Community Consultative Groups (CCGs) in West Prince, Evangeline, East Prince and Lennox Island to determine policing priorities for their communities. Ongoing meetings not only identified priorities, but also resulted in the development of action plans to address the priorities. This process involved the police, partner government agencies and the community at large. The results are being monitored quarterly to evaluate progress and discuss new initiatives. This has resulted in a focused, engaged and integrated effort at improving the quality of life in Prince District.

Success: The Auxiliary Policing Program in PEI sees 70 members trained to perform certain police functions under the supervision of an RCMP member. This program allows for interaction between the RCMP and community members so that each may have a better understanding of the issues and challenges they face. Auxiliary members receive basic training in common areas of law enforcement and they assist with such activities as school liaison, traffic, property checks, search and rescue and crowd control. They also assist during peace time emergencies such as flooding, hurricanes or major disruptions from snow storms.

TRAFFIC

Queens District Cst. Stu Leach reminds a motorist of the importance of buckling up during the Island-wide Room to live campaign.

DID YOU KNOW?

- From 1993 to 1997 in Canada, 39.7 per cent of fatally injured drivers and 17.9 per cent of those seriously injured (hospitalized for a period of at least 24 hours), were unbelted. These percentages accounted for a yearly average of 643 drivers killed and 1,819 seriously injured.
- From 1993 to 1997 in Canada, unbelted drivers (those killed and seriously injured) were over-represented among the younger age groups – particularly those in the 16-19 and 20-24 year old age categories.
- Of the 14 traffic fatalities in 2003 in PEI the non-use of seatbelts was a contributing factor in 10 and alcohol was involved in eight.

Each year many Islanders are killed or seriously injured in traffic collisions on our highways. A great number of these collisions were preventable and the impact of the injuries could have been significantly reduced had passenger safety restraints been used. "L" Division's traffic program is aligned with Canada's Road Safety Vision 2010. This is a national undertaking aimed at making Canada's roads the safest in the world. It calls for a 30 per cent reduction of fatal and serious injury collisions by 2010. Officially launched in 1996, and renewed in 2000, Road Safety Vision is supported by all levels of government as well as by public and private sector stakeholders. The plan makes use of a broad range of initiatives that focus on road users, roadways and motor vehicles. The "L" Division Mobile Traffic Unit now has three members, one per District. This allows for a more directed focus on traffic enforcement and education.

PEI (RCMP Jurisdiction) collisions baseline developed for period of 1996 to 2001

Fatalities resulting from collisions:	17.3 per year
Serious Injuries resulting from collisions:	81.6 per year

Year 2003 in RCMP jurisdiction

Fatalities resulting from collisions:	14
Serious Injuries resulting from collisions:	61

Success: The Room To Live seatbelt enforcement/education campaign was conducted in May/June 2003 focusing on seatbelt and occupant restraint compliance. This program offers motorists found to be in non-compliance with seatbelt requirements the option of (1) attending an educational session on seatbelt use or (2) paying the fine. In past years this was an RCMP-jurisdiction initiative. In 2003, municipal police agencies joined the RCMP, members of the medical community and the provincial Department of Transportation and Public Works in this successful public awareness campaign. Of the 468 individuals who received summary offence tickets for seatbelt violations, 293 attended the education sessions.

Success: "L" Division Traffic Services purchased a fatal vision goggles kit which provides a simulation of various levels of impairment for use in schools and community public awareness events. RCMP detachments used the kit throughout the year during school presentations to bring awareness to the effects of alcohol on driving ability. In October 2003 the Mobile Traffic Unit demonstrated how to use the kit during the Provincial SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) Conference in Charlottetown.

Success: As the result of an RCMP-led meeting of policing partners, a strategy-based traffic enforcement program was developed for the province. Together, the RCMP, municipal police agencies and the Highway Safety Division developed a schedule of traffic enforcement programs. This initiative saw a full integration of traffic services across the province with each partner contributing to the overall objective of reducing death, injury and property damage in our communities and on our highways.
